NEW YORK WOOL MARKET.

FEBRUARY 11.—Wool.—From Walter Brown & Co.'s circular: The new year opened with a very strong market for all classes of wood, which has continued through the month of January, accompanied by an active demand from manufacturers and a gradual hardening in prices that established an advance of about 4 per cen', on our last quotations. The movement has extended throughout the entire like of wools but owing to the small supply of medium grades it has necessarily been much larger in the finer qualities. In the transactions of the month foreign wools have held a prominent position. Of these some 18,000 bales are expected as direct importations from Australia, and a liberal amount from South America. But with the extremely small stocks of domestic unsold, and the largely increased consumption of our mils, there is little doubt that they will all be needed before the next clip of fine freces is avaitable. In anticipation of a continued activity and high prices throughout the spring manufacturers have purchased a considerable quantity of these foreign wools to arrive, which, with the amount taken in Melbourne for consumers' account, leave comparatively little to come upon the markets.—Journal of Commerce. NEW YORK WOOL MARKET.
